

A weasel had the munchies for a long and scaly treat.
(Who would have thought that snakes are something weasels like to eat?)
So while the giant monsters kept each other held at bay,
It gave the frightened mouse the perfect chance to get away.

